Bizarre Foods Day at Heights Elementary School

Pittsburg Unified School District's Child Nutrition Department hosts taste testing of "bizarre" foods with students. The goal of the event is to expose children to many foods they have never seen or eaten before. They will learn how the foods are grown, where they originate from...and how they taste! This is a very popular food event the Child Nutrition Department hosts each year.

QUOTE: "Bizarre Foods Day is a fun and exciting way for us to provide unique produce for students to taste and learn fun factoids about," said Pittsburg Unified School District's Child Nutrition Director, Angelia Nava. "Displays will consist of a variety of interesting fruits with students having the opportunity to taste test blood oranges, kumquats, and other odd-looking foods."
