MEDIA ADVISORY

3rd Graders Participate in Frog Faire at Stoneman Elementary School

3rd graders learn how a frog's adaptations help them survive and become experts on several frog species. In preparation for the Frog Faire, students have been hard a work reading, note-taking, and writing about amazing amphibians. The preparation for Friday's showcase involved science, technology, engineering, and mathematics...all related to frogs!

QUOTE: "We showcase the learning they have done by inviting the rest of the school and families to join us to come learn about frogs," said Angela Labat, 3rd Grade Teacher at Stoneman Elementary School. "In addition students will be learning about the threats to frogs and the environmental causes leading to their endangerment. We will kick off this year's Frog Fair with a visit from Michael Starkey from Save the Frogs who will shed some light on this topic and help us understand what we can do to help."
